“SEARCHING FOR EDEN: THE DIARIES OF ADAM AND EVE”

Based on the short stories by Mark Twain, “Searching for Eden” tells the story of the first man and woman experiencing the battle of the sexes and eventually fall in love. James Still weaves a captivating love story in amidst a comedy.

In the second act of the play, the Garden of Eden has become a resort.

The director is working to create scenes for fictitious articles in a newspaper formatted program to fill in the “behind the scenes” story. For this, we need photos of mock protests.

WHAT’S YOUR POINT OF VIEW?

Are you an environmentalist against the developer’s construction?

Do you support helping the economy by creating jobs?

Are you a historical preservationalist?

Other views welcome! Picket signs available!

By attending, you understand that in the event that a Vicksburg Theatre Guild or other photographer or video operator takes a picture or video of you, either individually or in a group, the Vicksburg Theatre Guild has permission to use your picture or video for publications.
